

APPENDIX L – ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

King County’s Strategic Technology Plan represents a central component for managing and implementing core systems and infrastructure countywide. As such, it has bearing on all agencies that rely on information systems in accomplishing their mission and day-to-day activities in an efficient and effective manner. It has been recognized from the outset of this planning effort that involvement from key stakeholders throughout the county was essential to achieving the intended broad reach of the final plan. The existing technology governance structure provided a clear means for engaging the relevant audience for input to the planning process. This planning effort would not have been possible without the input and review that has been provided by the Strategic Advisory Council, the Business Management Council, and the Technology Management Board. These three groups provide advice to the Chief Information Officer, as identified in King County Code in Appendix H. Additional Review and input was also provided by the newly created Office of Strategic Planning and Performance Management. Individuals who contributed in this process include the following:
